

Director's Desk

Renee Boyd-Jennings, Site Director

In our efforts to bring spring in a little earlier, I would like to remind you about daylight savings time and the challenges it can present to your children. Please adjust your child's bedtime so they can come to school rested and ready to learn. It is very important they receive enough sleep to have a productive and happy day in the classroom.

The Week of the Young Child™ is an annual celebration hosted by NAEYC to spotlight early learning, young children, their teachers, families, and communities. The Harvey Early Learning Center's children will be celebrating the Week of the Young Child with music, movement, art and crafts. This will be a great opportunity for you to volunteer in your child's classroom by reading a book or participating in the weekly events.

I would also like to give kudos to room #2 at the Harvey Early Learning Center! The classroom has been exploring and learning about restaurants, and they created their own pizza parlor! Our junior chefs learned about sorting and measuring ingredients to make their own pizza. Thanks Mrs. Falls, Mrs. Pinedo, and Mrs. Patricia Martinez for helping make this happen!
